

POLICE SEEK GIRL COMPANION OF WU

Riggs, and called for $50 for Wan. It was dated January 13, and cashed January 22. Wan's indorsement on the back of the check, corresponds identically with the writing on the check stub of the forged $5,000 check, according to Police Department experts.

That the murder of Dr. Wong and his assistants was a cold-blooded crime, planned weeks in advance by two men so short of money as to be in absolute desperation has just been revealed by the police probe into the case.

That the young Chinese who was the guest at the Educational Mission, 2023 Kalorama road, used his visit there for the sole purpose of laying his plans for the commission of the crime has just come to light. That his police are certain that the two young Chinese involved were in such a financial condition that $5,000 looked very large, and that they had to have the money, and that they got it in the only way they saw possible.

The time of the murder is now definitely fixed at about 11 o'clock. All three of the murdered men are now believed to have been in the basement kitchen when attacked. This would account for the fact that the triple tragedy could have been committed without even disturbing the nearest neighbors.

Dr. Wong Slain First.
Dr. Wong is believed to have met his death at the foot of the narrow stairs leading into the basement kitchen. He is believed to have received his first wound, the one in the breast, while standing at the foot of these stairs. He is then believed to have hurried up the stairs, possibly in an attempt to escape or to reach the telephone on the second floor. A handkerchief stained with blood with the name "Wong" on the hem and a pair of broken eyeglasses, positively identified as belonging to the noted educator, were found on the stairs.

The police have been stumped by the stairs, hotly pursued by the assassin, and that the second bullet was sent into his heart just as he reached the reception hall on the second floor. He must then have dropped in his tracks and lay in the pool of blood in which he was found. That the other two men, Hsie and Wu, were also in the basement when attacked is practically certain. They were attacked and killed there, the police say. They were not dragged down the stairs.

Two Men Involved.
That two men were involved in the actual commission of the murder in the police believe both men stayed in Washington that night has also developed.

It has been definitely proved that Wan was a guest at the Harris Hotel, near the Union Station, until noon of the day after the murder; that he had been keeping a room at the hotel since the Monday previous, although until Wednesday afternoon he was a guest at the mission and occupying the same room with Wu, whose body was later found in the basement. At the Harris he registered as Z. S. Wan, Szechuan, Shanghai, and was assigned to room 431.

Wan does not deny to the police that he was a guest at the Harris, Monday night, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, according to the statement of Mr. Sprigg, the clerk at the hotel.

Hotel Clerk's Story.
"There was no need for my facing Wan," said Sprigg to The Times. "I told Major Pullman that Wan was registered at the hotel and of his actions and movements while he was here. I was told by the police that when Wan was told what I had said, he admitted to the authorities he had been a guest, as I stated, at the Harris up to noon on Thursday, the day after the triple murder."

The police regard it as certain that Wan registered at the Harris Hotel about 10 o'clock on the morning of Monday a week ago, three days before the murder was committed.
Hsie told this to his friend King Chu, with whom he dined the night of the murder. Yet hours after he was supposed to have left the city, he was still at the mission and answered the door when Dr. King called at 7 o'clock. When arrested he said he left the city at 8:15 and was seen off at the train by Wu.

Believed Wan Guilty.
It is now certain that residents of the mission believed Wan had left Washington on Wednesday, some time in the afternoon. Wu is known to have told this to his friend King Chu, with whom he dined the night of the murder. Yet hours after he was supposed to have left the city, he was still at the mission and answered the door when Dr. King called at 7 o'clock. When arrested he said he left the city at 8:15 and was seen off at the train by Wu.

The account of the Chinese Mission at the Riggs Bank is known to have always been in the neighborhood of $150,000. The size of the mission deposit is believed to have been known to Wan, who had been a guest at the mission for some time. Because of its munificent proportions, it is believed Wan thought a check even for $5,000 could easily be cashed, and no suspicion be aroused.

What he did not know was that the bank record showed that no large or unusual payments or disbursements had been made during the preceding few months from either the mission account or the personal deposits of the three murdered men. Dr. Wong, himself, was wealthy in his own right.

Wan Says He Was Ill.
Wan denies that he was not cordially received at the mission by Dr. Wong, and tells the police that it is untrue that Wu refused to introduce him to his friends. He has told the police he has been ill for some time and that he could eat only certain things, and therefore did not care to go to dinner where others were eating rich food which would tempt him to eat things which would not agree with him.

Wan is believed to be under the care of a physician in the secret hiding place where the police are detaining him. He is on a diet—the rigid sort prescribed for a dyspeptic.

Wan is now known to have been a student at Ohio Wesleyan College at Delaware, Ohio, in 1916, and also at the Columbus (Ohio) Business College, where he took up shorthand, American business methods and banking. He intended to become a banker and return to his own country.

The brother studied chemistry and electricity, and had recently been employed in a munitions plant at Providence, R. I.

DETROIT, Feb. 6.—The principle of self-determination is not for the children of Detroit. An old law rings curfew at 8 o'clock for all children under sixteen. It was resurrected today and ordered enforced.

MARCH IS TAX LIMIT.
No extension of time for filing tax returns under the new revenue measure will be allowed, Secretary Glass announced today. The first installment of taxes and returns on all taxes must be in the hands of the Treasury by March 15, the bill provides. Glass said it had been decided definitely there was no reason to grant a longer time for filing returns.

USED KORNILOFF'S HEAD AS FOOTBALL FIVE ESCAPE DEATH AS BALLOON BURNS

PARIS, Feb. 6.—After the tragic account of the death of the former Czar of Russia and his family at the hands of the Bolsheviks, says a special cable dispatch to the New York World today, comes the description of General Korniloff's vain attempts to restore order in Russia, his fights against the Bolsheviks and Germans and his death.

Many times during the sanguinary encounters between his troops and those of the Bolsheviks, General Korniloff shouldered a rifle himself and fought as a simple soldier. He was killed while directing an attack near Ekaterinodar by a bursting grenade thrown by a Bolshevik in the hut where the famous general was working.

His soldiers, before retiring, decided to bury the body temporarily, with the intention of coming back later and give their leader a grandiose funeral. In the meantime the Bolsheviks heard of General Korniloff's death. They sent a special mission to find the body. Having discovered it the Bolsheviks in their mad joy at having got rid of one of their bitterest opponents, fought for the body, which was finally hung on a tree. It did not remain there long, however, for a furious mob of anarchists tore it down, cut it into pieces, and for more than a quarter of an hour played football with the general's head.

Two new officers are assisting today in the direction of the affairs of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, following their election by the board of directors at the meeting last night in the Chamber's headquarters, 611 Twelfth street northwest. Chapin Brown was elected general counsel and Ralph W. Lee is the new treasurer of the organization.

Chairmen and vice chairmen of standing committees were named. The names of new officers and the committee heads were reported by P. T. Moran, chairman of the nominating committee. The committee asked to be excused from recommending a secretary, as the names of several applicants are being considered before a successor is recommended for Thomas Grant, who has resigned.

A committee composed of James T. Lloyd, Henry B. F. Macfarland, and Charles J. Bell was appointed to draft a letter to answer charges against Washington and local business men made in a speech by Senator Sherman of Illinois in the Senate recently.

TODAY D. C. MONEY BILL MAY BE HELD UP

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, says 500,000 men in the United States are out of work now. There is the sore spot in the United States. And the spot should not be allowed to become any bigger. The five hundred thousand idle no longer include Mr. McAdoo, recently Secretary of the Treasury. He has been engaged as counsel in a great moving picture combination, which includes Mary Pickford, Mr. Fairbanks, Mr. Charles Chaplin, and others. His salary is said to be $100,000 a year. As a lawyer, he will be able to make easily between half a million and a million annually—a considerable improvement on the salary paid him by the country for running the Treasury and the railroads.

Senators are criticizing the embargo that the British have established shutting out from England goods made in this and other countries. There is no justice in such criticism. The British have a right to do as they please within their own frontiers and to shut out our goods if they like. Let us hope, however, that no very serious attention will be paid to the petition for free trade in this country which is pushed by college professors and others.

We should adopt the methods that prove the intelligence of British statesmen, and with embargoes or anything else necessary and useful, protect workmen and business men here. It will have to be done sooner or later. It might as well be done before trouble comes.

HALL COLLAPSES AFTER ACQUITTAL
SACO, Me., Feb. 6.—The Rev. Henry H. Hall, the evangelist acquitted by a jury of the charge of murdering his wife by throwing her from a railroad trestle, was in a state of nervous collapse at the hotel here today, and was under the care of a physician. The jury deliberated ten and a half hours.

A telegram was received from a New York theatrical manager offering Hall a vaudeville engagement. Later Hall recovered from the state of collapse and walked, arm in arm with Grace Gerew, his acknowledged sweetheart, from his hotel to the railroad station, where he boarded a train for Lawrence, Mass., where he will visit his nephew.

Asked when the wedding would be, Grace Gerew blushed and refused to answer. She did not, however, deny that there would be a wedding before long.

These Durable Soles Cut Shoe Bills Down

"For use around cement plants and similar places where rough material grind down soles quickly, I recommend Neolin Soles. They resist wear surprisingly. After working around the clincher department long enough to wear out two pairs of ordinary soles my Neolin Soles are still as good as new," writes A. F. Miller, superintendent of The Peninsular Portland Cement Company plant in Jackson, Michigan.

It is remarkable how tough and durable Neolin Soles are. They are made by Science—comfortable and waterproof, too. They come on new shoes in many styles for men, women, and children, and are available everywhere for re-soles. Wear them, and your shoe bills down.

Neolin Soles are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, O., who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

SAYS CLERK ASKED BRIBE TO PUSH PLAN VEEDER PROTESTS BRITISH INQUIRY

Secretary Baker today told the Senate Public Buildings Committee that the Department of Justice has been asked to investigate the charge that J. Milton Trainor, a War Department employee, solicited $100,000 as a fee for "getting the Chicago Speedway Hospital project off the rocks."

This action was taken, Baker said, when a representative of the inspector general's office reported there might be some ground for the charge. The charge was made by William S. Bennett, counsel for the Chicago Construction Company, which built the hospital.

Senator France said the most searching inquiry should be made to determine whether Trainor asked for the money as a bribe and "why the man who decided against the Speedway project did so against the recommendations of every Governmental agency which had investigated the question for him."

Baker agreed that "if a bribe was asked, the person asking it should be punished, and if there was a connection between him and the man who turned down the project the latter also should be punished."

Henry Veeder, Swift counsel, today protested against a proposed investigation of big packers by Great Britain, when he appeared before the Senate Agricultural Committee.

England, Veeder said, intends to accept the report of the Federal Trade Commission here as a basis.

"This action of the English government," Veeder asserted, "is based entirely on the vicious and erroneous report which the commission put out after an ex-parte hearing."

Senator Gronna objected to allowing Veeder's protest to go into the record, but was overruled by Chairman Gore.

Henry read a letter referring to the oleomargarine situation in Pennsylvania quoting the "big man" as giving assurance that there would be no prosecutions as long as the packers did not get "too far off" in coloring their oleo.

Veeder said he did not know who the "big man" of Pennsylvania was. Ex-Senator Bailey, of Texas, was paid $5,000, in 1915, as fees for legal work in Texas, Veeder testified. Henry read a letter from Veeder assigning to big packers their shares in this expense.
